

Isn't that the way it always works? Everytime something good and useful comes around people get upset and try to change it, or even get rid of it. I have XM radio, and work in Detroit, where traffic can be murder. The normal radio stations do not always give you info about accidents or back-ups to save you time. With the XM I can check whenever I want and it has saved me literally hours of time from waiting in traffic. I love having it, but the FCC and lobbyists, and whomever else there is thinks they know better than the hard working people of our country, and want to change it. Well I spend my hard earned money on XM and I want my weather and traffic whenever I please. Weather I'm in Detroit, Philadelphia, or even Chicago. Don't change a very good thing just for the sake of it. Think of us workers, who work hard and expect to get what we are entitled to.

Thank You
